OUR STREETS

Record of Improvements for Sixteen Months—$120,000 Expended for Street Improvements from January 1, 1908, to May 1, 1909

The wisdom of our people in quickly recognizing and acting upon the fact that no public work that we might do as a community, would bring such quick and satisfactory returns as the improvement of our streets, is being emphasized daily. But to what an extent this work has been pushed is probably realized by very few. The figures following will, therefore, be a revelation to our people and of interest to all who may be interested in the growth of our community, wherever they may be located. Perhaps the most remarkable part of the statement given is the large amount of money actually paid out by property owners for these improvements. While the greater part of the work has been done under the ten-year bond act, the amount of bonds actually outstanding is very small, aggregating about $20,000. All of the work has been done since Jan. 1st, 1908, and is complete except in the case of a few streets which will be completed May 1st.

Lomita avenue, Glendale to Central, contract price $6000; bonds outstanding, $2000.

Third street, Brand to Childs tract line, contract price, $9500; bonds outstanding, $4000.

Ninth street, Glendale avenue to Adams, contract price, $4000; bonds outstanding, $900.

Chestnut street, Central to Glendale avenue, contract price, $5000; bonds outstanding, $1800.

Fourth street, Glendale to Adams, contract price, $3800; bonds outstanding, $1500.

Second street, Adams to Verdugo, contract price, $3300; bonds outstanding, $1200.

First street, Glendale to Verdugo, contract price, $6500; bonds outstanding, $1600.

Fourth street, Central to Brand, contract price, $2000; bonds outstanding, $300.

Seventh street, Central to Brand, contract price, $1800; bonds outstanding, $700.

Everett street, Third to Sixth, contract price, $2000; bonds outstanding, $600.

Adams street, Mary to South City limits, contract price, $9500; bonds outstanding, $2800.

Louise street, Second to Ninth, contract price, $7000; bonds outstanding, $2200.

Second street, Glendale to Brand, contract price, $6500; bonds outstanding, $1900.

Brand boulevard, Fifth to South City limits, contract price, $7000; bonds outstanding, $2800.

The following paid cash:
Fifth street, Glendale to Central, $7100.

Cedar street, $2400.
The following are to pay cash, completion May 1st:

Mary St., Fifth to Sixth.....$ 500
Orange Grove, Glendale to Adams 1800
Mary street, Doran to Third..... 1200
Orange street, First to Fourth..... 1150

The following are under the bond act, completion May 1st, bonds not yet issued:

Belmont street.....$1600
First street, Brand to Central..... 1600
Maple street, Glendale to Seventh 4300
Mary street, Third to Fifth..... 2300
Orange street, Fourth to Sixth..... 2550
Geneva street..... 1200
Kenwood street..... 4500
Isabel street..... 4200
Howard street..... 4500

The streets completed under the bond act, cost approximately $79,100, and of this sum only $26,100 remains unpaid, as represented by outstanding bonds. Two completed streets on a cash basis have cost $9500. Four others to be completed May 1st, will pay in cash $4650. The last named streets to be completed under the bond act May 1st will cost $26,750.

The whole work covered in these sixteen months aggregates an expenditure of $120,000, and by the date mentioned for the completion of the unfinished work (May 1st) the probability is that it will have been paid for with the exception of about $25,000.

In addition to this work there has been something like $20,000 worth of street improvements made under private contract in accordance with the city's specifications and under the direction of the street superintendent.

The quality of the work done has been constantly improving since the first until it is now as nearly perfect as it seems possible to make it. Indeed, there is never a week passing in which one or more parties do not visit Glendale for the particular purpose of inspecting this work, which the petrolic paving people claim is the best of its kind that has been done anywhere.

"FROM LIBBY TO LIBERTY" TONIGHT.

The lecture tonight by Captain Jas. M. Wells will undoubtedly be one of the most entertaining events of the season, as the intensely interesting and thrilling story, which he relates will be enhanced by superior oratorical style, the lecturer having had a large experience in speaking upon a wide range of topics besides having been during the three national presidential campaigns one of the valued orators. Captain Wells has traveled extensively in this and foreign countries, coming in contact with prominent persons, is remarkably versatile in talents and attainments and seldom does it fall to the lot of one man to have occupied so many and varied positions of honor and trust in state and nation. He was collector of internal revenue in Mississippi, private secretary to the governor of that state, occupied a position in the United States treasury under Secretaries Sherman and Windom, was a World's Columbian Exposition commissioner and a delegate to the national irrigation congress, in 1902, where he gave one of the addresses. In the Idaho senatorial contest for the most popular senator, Captain Wells received a majority of over five hundred votes above his closest competitor. He also occupied the chair of chief executive of that state.

During his active life he has found time for authorship, having been correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean and other publications, and also having written several books and pamphlets, one of the former of which, "From Libby to Liberty," is now in the hands of the publisher, while another was highly commended, by personal letters to the author, by Benjamin Butler and William Lloyd Garrison, the latter saying: "This thrilling volume ought to find a place in every public library and deserves to be read and pondered in every family."

Captain Wells has twice been a prisoner of war and he will tell among other interesting stories, how he, a young captain, together with one hundred and fifty commissioned officers, tunneled out of Libby prison.

It is not alone, however, because of notable achievements that Captain Wells is esteemed by his friends, who have elicited this information from this retiring gentleman, but also because of his cordial and cultured personality and integrity of character, do they delight to honor him and the lecture which he will give under the auspices of the civics committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club for the most desirable and praiseworthy object of securing one of several drinking fountains proposed for Glendale, will receive, no doubt, the patronage which the laudable object deserves.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

At the regular meeting on March 23, after a short business session, a parliamentary drill was given the club by the parliamentarian, Mrs. Ezra F. Parker. This was along needed lines and evoked much enthusiasm.

Mrs. Church was chairman of the committee for the afternoon and she was fortunate in securing for a speaker Mr. Dodds, chief probation officer of the Los Angeles Juvenile Court.

The subject—"Prison Reform" is one very near to Mr. Dodds' heart, he having worked for years for the betterment of penal conditions in the state of Illinois—and succeeded in having established the Intermediate Sentence and Parole Law, which is vastly different from the old order of things, as he found them, and which Mr. Dodds made the keynote of his plea for help to introduce the same system in our own state of California. The talk was very enlightening and aroused much feeling of pity and sympathy.

The Philanthropic Committee of the Tuesday afternoon Club request a generous Easter donation from the club members and their friends, the public, for the Children's Day Nursery of Los Angeles. Clothing, pictures, Easter cards, jellies and jams left before April 8th with Mrs. Rehart, 240 E. 4th street, or Mrs. Burkett, 724 W. 5th street, Glendale, will be forwarded to the nursery in time to bring some Easter gladness to the children.

CITY TRUSTEES

City Attorney Metcalf Resigns and Fred'k Baker Appointed—Sixth Street to be Opened to Verdugo Road and Orange Street to Doran

All members present except Mr. Cole. Demands as follows were referred to the finance committee: J. H. Seaman, wiring at City Hall, $8.50; J. M. Sprinkle, labor street department, $16.05; Clarence Sprinkle, ditto, $2.00; W. L. Nelson, inspecting street work, $15.00; Glendale News, job printing, $12.25; publishing, $5.80; B. Hayman, repairs fire department, $1.20.

Demands previously referred were reported back approved and allowed. The resignation of John N. Metcalf, Esq., as city attorney, to take effect immediately, was received, and on motion accepted. Trustee Andersen offered a resolution appointing Fred'k Baker, Esq., city attorney, which was adopted. (Trustee Cole entered at 7:30).

The city engineer requested week's time to report on bids for the improvement of Lomita avenue; granted. Trustee Blackburn offered a resolution ordering street work to be done on Central avenue, which was adopted. The city attorney and engineer were instructed to take necessary proceedings to open Sixth street from the east line of Childs tract to Verdugo road. The city attorney was instructed to prepare a resolution designating the Black Acacia and Monterey Pine as the official shade trees for planting on Maple and Seventh streets; palms and camphor trees for Lomita avenue and black acacia for Orange Grove avenue.

The city attorney was instructed to serve notice on Mr. Beldin to pay rent to the city for lot occupied by him or vacate the same. The city attorney was instructed to secure certificate of title and take other necessary proceedings to open Orange street from First street to Doran street on lines of Glendale Park tract.

The city engineer and street superintendent were instructed to prepare a set of specifications for boulevard work. Request from Lapp Gifford & Co. for extension of sixty-days' time on First street, Mary and Howard streets, was granted.

PHILANTHROPIC WORKERS.

Much has been written and said during the past winter in local and club circles of the good work accomplished by the civics and forestry committees of the Tuesday Afternoon club, but nothing of the good accomplished by those energetic ladies comprising the philanthropic committee who have quietly done much in the line of charitable work and have plans for a great deal more. Kind hearted citizens of Glendale can give so much help, each doing just a little in the right way, and Mrs. Charles Burkett, Mrs. L. C. Rice and Mrs. M. Rehart, a part of the committee, and all on the Sunset phone, will gladly tell how. Also, they are ready to extend help, with the club to back them, to those in distress. Already they have accomplished such work as furnishing quantities of food and clothing to needy ones in Glendale and to children in the Los Angeles Day Nursery. In a short time they will have secured legal adoption papers for a child for whom they found a home and calls have been made to the needy, sick, shut-ins, to lonely sufferers, and the aged needing attention. Following is a partial list of what has already been contributed and distributed, given that the reader will readily see how to aid in this noble work.

In December the committee distributed, in Glendale, wood, fruit and vegetables three times; also one mattress, one pillow, two comforts; furnished groceries and wood to a needy family and sent them, for a period, eggs and milk every day.

To the Day Nursery there was delivered forty-two glasses jelly, 34 jam and preserves, five pounds dried apricots, 7 boxes cookies, 75 small boxes candles, 100 pounds walnuts, 2 bars soap, 39 garments, nine of them new, 12 pairs shoes, 15 pairs hose, 1 box toys, 5 fine scrap books.

In January there was given out in Glendale 4 pieces bed linen, 2 pairs shoes; and in February 2 pairs shoes. A large list of fruits, jellies, honey, etc., contributed in March and sent to the Day Nursery is not yet complete and will be published later.

"HE WHO SINS MUST SUFFER."

The address on "Prison Reform," given in Odd Fellows' hall for the Tuesday Afternoon club by Probation Officer Dodds, of the Los Angeles County Juvenile court, was one of the best things on the program for this year. The speaker made clear the fact that our penal system is a disgrace to the country and prison reform has become imperative. A very large percentage of the deaths in our prisons are of prisoners under thirty years of age! Need of a "juvenile" court cannot be questioned. Today there are over eight hundred in custody of the Los Angeles Juvenile court who will receive intelligent and humane treatment not possible formerly. Eighty-seven and a half per cent. of prisoners in one institution were proved to be those who had suffered some break in their childhood life, like death or divorce of parents, etc.

Mr. Dodds is the first probation officer ever appointed in any country, and having previously studied prison life for twenty-six years, he knows whereof he speaks. In fifteen years he cared for and protected three thousand discharged prisoners in Illinois and in all that time his wife was a faithful assistant. It is hoped that Mr. Dodds will some time be urged to speak before the club again, upon the necessity of properly caring for those whom the law insists must "suffer for their sin" through incarceration in public prisons.

THE WEATHER.

California rarely celebrates the vernal equinox by a genuine and protracted storm, but it did so this year in a manner that is notable. The rain began to fall during the evening of Saturday and continued the most of the time for the following twenty-four hours. The peculiarity of the rainfall was the unequal precipitation in various places within the county. At Pasadena the rainfall measured for the week 3.38 inches, while at Santa Monica it was only 1.15 inches. In our own neighborhood the variation was remarkable. Mr. Bartlett of Brand boulevard reports a total for the storm of 2.05 inches, while on Verdugo road, a mile eastward, there was almost twice as much by tub measurement.

Los Angeles, for the storm reports only 1.72 inches, making the total there for the season, 18.42, as against 10.79 last year up to this date. In the Northern California at this time (Thursday) the storm still continues and may turn southward and give the southern portion of the state another installment of moisture. The season has been a remarkably favorable one in the matter of rain and prospects for crops were never better. There was a heavy snow fall on our nearby mountains, which guarantees an abundant supply of water for the streams for many weeks to come.

UNUSUAL ART EXHIBIT.

Local interest is centering on the coming art exhibition to be given on the thirteenth of April in Guild Hall under the direction of Miss Mary Blackburn, Mrs. Ellen Brown Newcomb, Mrs. J. N. Witham and Mrs. O. M. Patterson. The affair is under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon club and the event promises to be one of interest to all friends of the club. Members are expected to exhibit their own art work, such as painting, fine needle work, burnt wood, tooled leather, stencils, crayon and charcoal, carving, etc., and to enter these exhibits no later than Tuesday morning that they may be properly placed by the committee.

Members have the privilege of inviting friends and guests to view the display and enjoy the afternoon as guests of the club and there is no doubt that the day will prove to be the art event of the season, as there is much talent along these lines among those interested.

A NEW CITY ATTORNEY.

The resignation of Mr. J. N. Metcalf as city attorney comes as a surprise to the most of our citizens. Mr. Metcalf is a resident of Glendale and we hope will continue to reside among us, as he has made many friends among our people during the few months that he has resided here. The appointment of Mr. Fred'k Baker to fill the vacancy will, no doubt, prove generally acceptable, as Mr. Baker during the most trying days of our then fledgling city, when he previously occupied the position, showed himself to be in every way well qualified as a safe and sane adviser.

SUPPORT OF HOME PAPER.

Merchants Urged to Back Local Advertising Medium to the Limit.

An appreciative view of the home newspaper is given in the Office Outfitter of Chicago, from which we make the following extracts:

Many a good town isn't worth a cent because the local newspaper is neglected. Many a good merchandising center is dead because the men in business treat the editor of the newspaper as an object of charity. This is wrong. The local paper is the greatest thing in the community. It should be supported. It should be read and patronized. The merchants who think they are clever and smart when they slip one over on the local paper make a big mistake. Every dollar you take away from the local newspaper in schemes and knocks hurts the town. It hurts business, and, most of all, it hurts the merchants who indulge in it.

Whatever else you merchants do, patronize your home paper. Don't tell me that it has a small circulation. Don't tell me that you reach ten times as many people with less expense using circulars. Don't spring any of those time worn gags on me at all. Stop standing in your own light. Get behind the local paper and push it for all you are worth. I don't mean push it to the wall. Push it up grade to a position where it ought to be, and as sure as you are alive you will push your own business up with it to a point you never dreamed of before.

When a man tells me that he reaches more people and gets better results from his circulars I know that he is deceiving himself and telling me what I can prove to be untrue. A newspaper in the community is read by the people. They learn to watch for it, and when they get it every member of the family wants his turn to see what it says. Ads. and all are read. If the merchant of a community will educate the people to look in the newspaper for their announcements the people will read the paper more and greater will be the returns.

There is no alley so long but that has its ash barrels, and there is no knock so powerful or subtle but that it reacts. Do yourself a favor and keep up your end by supporting the local newspaper, and support it for all you are worth.

It can be added that whatever the local papers do to help their city or town is of benefit to every business man therein.—Chelsea (Mass.) Record.

FOUND DEAD.

Last Sunday morning, George Hughes, who drives stage out of Sunland down to the Southern Pacific station at Roscoe, found the dead body of a man under a culvert over which the stage road passes. The remains proved to be those of Ernest Thorstrom, a Swede, or Finn, a man about 30 years of age whom the driver on the previous day had given a ride on the stage from Sunland to the place where the body was found. The dead man was a consumptive who seems to have no fixed residence but was tramping about the country. Appearances indicated that he died soon after he was left at the culvert on Saturday, probably before night came on; the body being found in a sitting position. He had no known relatives in this country. The body was brought to the Pulliam Undertaking establishment and a coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death from natural causes.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Mrs. Nanno Woods, of Hollywood, will give a popular musical talk and readings before the students and patrons of the school on Thursday, April 1st, at 2 p. m. Her program for the afternoon will be a talk on "A Crazy Fiddler," followed by readings from "The Prisoner of Chillon." Mrs. Woods is making no charge for the entertainment and a very cordial invitation is extended to all music lovers to be present and meet this talented and charming lady.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

Mr. J. A. Gates has sold a lot on Castle street to Dr. J. A. Spangler, late missionary to South America, and organizer of the local Methodist church. Mr. Spangler has let the contract for a two-story colonial house of six rooms to Contractor T. Riley of Los Angeles. Work on foundation was started Wednesday. Eagle Rock extends a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Spangler and their family.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Needham of Acacia street have purchased a half acre lot on Park avenue, close to the foothills. The property will be improved by a neat bungalow in the near future. The sale was made by H. C. Tupper, special agent for Edwards & Wilkey Co.

NEW BUSINESS.

Geo. Diddock, the real estate agent, is preparing to open an ice cream parlor and cigar store in part of his office at the junction of Eagle Rock, Glendale and Los Angeles railroad. This will supply a long felt want in this vicinity.

Over 20 members of the club went to Boyle Heights at the invitation of the Entre Nous Ladies' Club of that place on Wednesday afternoon.

BUILDING.

Glendale—Paul V. Tuttle is preparing plans for a one and one-half story, seven-room cottage for City Engineer Lynch of this city. Frame, 47x26 feet, oak floors, Oregon pine finish, bath, modern plumbing, electric wiring and fixtures, brick mantel. It will be located on Damasco Court.

August Schleicher is building a three-room California house, corner Second and Howard street, costing $200.

H. P. Coker, of 126 East Third street, is improving his residence to the amount of $600.

A BRIDGE ON LOUISE STREET.

Through the efforts of our enterprising fellow citizens, Mr. Sydney Dell, a numerously signed petition has been presented to Supervisor Pridham asking that a bridge be put over the wash across Louise street, north of the city limits. The high water of a few weeks ago by washing into the south bank of the wash at Louise street, made the road impassable at that point and it seems necessary that the county should put some permanent work in there to prevent any such occurrence in the future. Mr. Pridham has promised to come out and look over the situation.

Monrovia is going to vote on a bond issue of $132,500 of which $100,000 is to be spent for a sewer system.

Cheer up! The worst is yet to come. The Prohibitionists have hired Carrie Nation to come to Los Angeles!

The rain does not fall alike upon the just and the unjust in Southern California. There was four inches of it in Glendale during the last storm and only one inch in Santa Monica. Now which is which?

By the death of Col. G. Wiley Wells at Santa Monica on Monday last, there was taken from this mortal sphere one of the most prominent citizens of the Los Angeles of twenty-five years ago. Col. Wells played a prominent part in the reconstruction period immediately succeeding the civil war and in the latter '70's was one of the most noted lawyers in this part of the state.

I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man who lives in it so that his place will be proud of him. Be honest, but hate no one; overturn a man's wrongdoing, but do not overturn him unless it must be done in overturning the wrong. Stand with anybody that stands right. Stand with him while he is right, and part with him when he goes wrong.

—ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Our brethren, the great newspaper reformers of Los Angeles, are not getting great chunks of glory out of their performance in playing Oswald against Harper, after all. A special grand jury is waiting for something to turn up while the detectives stand on the Mexican border, wave an ineffectual warrant of arrest toward that part of the sheltering sister republic, where Nick is enjoying himself, and send wireless messages through space begging him to come back and be arrested! And why should he not? He has a guarantee of immunity given by a great editor!

We do not believe in the direct primary scheme. It has proved worse than a failure in every state in which it has been tried; notably in Oregon, Wisconsin and Illinois. Under this system in Oregon the successful candidate is said to have spent during his canvass five thousand dollars for postage alone. The election of Senator Stephenson in Wisconsin cost him over $100,000; another candidate spent $40,000, and another $30,000. But at Sacramento it was not the business of our representatives to debate the wisdom of the law, but to enact one that would be as simple and direct as possible in accordance with the mandate of the people. That such a measure has not been passed, shows that the organization within the Republican party has not yet lost its cunning.

OF INTEREST TO EAGLE ROCK.

The completion of the new car line has put Glendale and Eagle Rock in such close contact that from this time forward we expect to see an intimacy between the two communities which will work for their common advantage and such a consummation should certainly be encouraged by the people at both ends of the line. THE NEWS has made arrangements with a citizen of Eagle Rock to represent this paper in that section and we sincerely hope that he will be given such encouragement as will justify us in devoting hereafter considerable space to the immediate interests of that locality. Arrangements will be made to get the paper to our subscribers in Eagle Rock more promptly than has hitherto been possible. Our friends of Eagle Rock are requested to assist our representative in every way possible when he calls upon them, for our mutual advantage.

THE RECALL.

Judge Bordwell has decided, very properly, no doubt, that the recall election in Los Angeles must proceed, and it is taking place as we go to press. Notwithstanding the talk of the possibilities of the election of Wheeler, the Socialist candidate, we have no doubt but that Alexander will get a large majority of the vote cast. It is regrettable that Mayor Harper was forced out of office by a combination of a few private individuals before the election was held. If these individuals held the evidence which they seem to possess, it could have been put to much better use than as a means to deprive Harper of his position a few weeks before the people had an opportunity to displace him by legal action at the polls. It is mere foolishness to claim that the Recall is justified by the accomplishment of Harper's removal, for it had nothing to do with it. It is a foregone conclusion that the recallers will have their own way at the polls, for the opponents of the measure, having no candidate, have no way of expressing their disapproval of it. Mr. Alexander will be elected, but he is not likely to be able to claim that he was supported by a majority of the people.

BLESSED BE SPRING.

Not altogether in the spring turns the young man's fancy to thoughts of love. With young and old and all conditions of men, it is the season of hope and fair promise. The year should begin about the time of the vernal equinox, for then and not at the end of cheerless December is the turning point in the affairs of man, and of the earth upon which he lives. In the spring "old things have passed away, behold all things have become new." Up through the mulch of last year's foliage and grasses, catching hold with invisible hands of the impalpable air, the infant blade and the tiny leaf climb toward the sun. The genial warmth of soft spring days draws upward through every vein of the listless tree the invigorating sap; the old leaves and bark are discarded to make way for new raiment with which the summer shall glorify it, while the cheek of nature becomes dimpled with flowers.

And the farmer plants his seed with hope that is almost a surety; the mistakes of the past, the unpropitious season, the blighted crop, the unappreciative market—these are of the past, of the year that is ended—the future is secure, for the necromancer fancy, is repeating the miracle of the ages and in anticipation all is well!

Blessed be spring!

A DIRECT PRIMARY LAW AT LAST.

After a deadlock in the senate for a week or more over the acceptance by that body of the amendments made to the measure in the assembly, a free conference of the two houses agreed upon a compromise which was adopted and the bill was passed. The original senate measure provided for a vote on choice for senator by the voters of the state as a whole. This was not acceptable to the "regulars," who evidently feared that this plan would give the voters too much to say in the matter, hence the amendments. The essential part of the bill as passed, appears below. It will be noticed that representatives in the legislature may support for senator, either the man chosen by their party in their own district, or the candidate chosen by the voters of the party in a majority of all the districts.

"Party candidates for the office of United States senator shall have their names placed on the official primary ballots of their respective parties in the manner herein provided for state officers; provided, however, that the vote for candidates for United States senators shall be an advisory vote for the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment of the voters in the respective senatorial and assembly districts in the respective parties; provided, further, that members of the legislature shall be at liberty to vote either for the choice of their respective districts expressed at said primary election, or for the candidate for United States senator who shall have received the endorsement of their party at such primary election in the greatest number of districts electing members of such party to the legislature."

AN ILLOGICAL REFORMER.

Glendale has been privileged to look upon a real live ex-presidential candidate. One of his enthusiastic supporters assured the people (through the columns of this veracious journal) that this candidate was the equal of any of his competitors for the exalted office of president of the United States! If we had made this statement in our editorial columns, we should have laid awake nights until our apology could appear in the next issue. And this is no reflection upon the private character of the gentleman alluded to who favored Glendale audiences last Monday with his presence. We sincerely hope that the young folks who gave up an hour or two of their school work in the afternoon to hear this gentleman talk, still believe that Mr. William Howard Taft and Mr. William Jennings Bryan are men of more than average ability. We hope that these young people did not have hopelessly obliterated all previously knowledge which they had acquired of the science of logic. They certainly listened to some rather startling propositions. They were told that "Drunkness could be wiped out in sixty days by the passage of ten lines of law." We doubt if Mr. Taft or Mr. Bryan in the palmiest days of their youthful enthusiasm, were ever capable of believing that—and Mr. Chaffin must believe it, or he would not say it! The audience heard the gifted speaker tell of the progress that science is making in arresting the ravages of the "white plague," and a little while afterwards were told that "you will never stop consumption until you stamp out alcoholism." (by ten lines of law.) They heard also that church members who do not vote for prohibition, refrain from doing so because of their business interests, political ambitions, etc.

They were further informed that Republicans and Democrats have two standards of morals, the Prohibitionists one! They heard that there is no such thing as personal liberty in the United States and, inferentially, should not be. They were told that 126,000 souls go to perdition (he gave the uglier name) yearly, because those ten lines of law are not on the statute books at Washington. They heard local option illustrated by the story of the man who finding a dead dog on his premises, threw it into his neighbor's yard. They did not hear, however, that under the new dispensation dead dogs are not to be removed until a law is passed preventing dogs everywhere from going dead, so that there may be a general clean-up and the curse of dead dogs banished from the earth. No—andor compels the admission that Mr. Chaffin is not logical and we do not believe that the failure to elect him president should be too seriously deplored.

Editor News:

In reply to inquiries let me state briefly why the Catholic Church condemns Christian Science:

First of all, it is pantheistic in doctrine. Mrs. Eddy in her book, "Science and Health," says that there is no such thing as matter. This makes God all. Hence all is mind.

Secondly, it denies the free will of man, and declares that will power is an illusion of belief.

Thirdly, it denies that there is such a thing as sin. "If," says Mrs. Eddy, "soul sinned, it would be mortal." Because soul is immortal, soul cannot sin." Again: "The soul or mind is God and God never sins."

Fourthly, it denies the consequence of sin. "Sin, sickness, disease and death have no objective reality."

Fifthly, it denies the personality of God. "God is the universe."

Sixthly, it denies the omnipotence of God. "God cannot produce matter." Seventhly, it denies the Incarnation. "Jesus is the ideal man." "Mary's conception of Jesus was spiritual."

Eighthly, it holds that Jesus did not suffer or die. "Suffering and disease are self-imposed belief of mortals." "He was alive in the grave."

Ninthly, it denies the Lord's resurrection, for "He did not rise again, since He did not die."

Tenthly, it twists the Ascension in this fashion: "As a reward for His faithfulness, He would disappear to material sense in the change which has since been called the ascension." Eleventhly, it declares that no judgment awaits mortals, for there is no such thing as sin.

Twelfthly, it teaches that the Holy Ghost is expressed in Christian Science and says that there is no such thing as trinity of persons in God.

With kindest regards,

Your humble servant in Christ,
REV. JAMES S. O'NEILL.

MR. EUGENE CHAFIN LECTURES.

Mr. Eugene Chaffin, late candidate of the Prohibition party for president, spoke in Glendale last Monday afternoon to good houses. In the afternoon he addressed a good-sized audience at Odd Fellows' hall and in the evening a larger one at K. of P. hall. Mr. Chaffin is a ready talker and won frequent applause by his best hits. He belongs to the uncompromising wing of the party and is very much opposed to the methods of the anti-saloon people, particularly to Dr. Chapman, whose local option views and work Mr. Chaffin does not appreciate. As Dr. Chapman has many friends in Glendale and there are many believers in local option here, the talks of the celebrated advocate of prohibition principles were not as enthusiastically received as they otherwise might have been.

THE ESCAPE FROM LIBBY.

The story of this historic episode will be related at Odd Fellows hall tonight by Capt. James M. Wells, one of the survivors of the party which dug out under the prison walls, some of them escaping, although many were recaptured. Young people in particular should hear this story, so that they may better realize the trials and patriotic achievements of the generation that has happily not yet passed away.

Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Pomeroy, Misses Emma Perry, June Leutge, Nellie Cartwright, Carrie McLean, Ruth Pomeroy, Emma Riddell, Messrs. Hardy Riddell and C. H. Pomeroy.

Mrs. Margaret Mullar, mother of Mrs. C. Schelling, died Sunday morning at the home of her daughter. She was 87 years old and had not been well and strong for some time, and while out in the yard Wednesday last, fell and broke her leg, which hastened her death. She was born in Switzerland in 1822 and came to California 20 years ago. Funeral services were held Tuesday at Peck and Chase undertaking parlors in Los Angeles. Interment at Rosedale.

Citizens of this community and of Lankershim are very enthusiastic over the prospects of the Automobile Dealers' association holding the Fourth of July road race on the San Fernando road course. Fred Weddington, R. Gwynn of Lankershim and John Lankershim came here Saturday, and consulted with the residents and found the sentiment favorable for a big race. It will be necessary to spend at least $6000 on the course to get it into shape for racing. Should the San Fernando road course be chosen it will be with the idea of holding the race on the road for the next five years, in this way the dealers could hope to reap some return from the money expended.

The road could be used for practice purposes for at least a month prior to the big race, and the cars could hum over the course without danger to residents, as the few places where there are houses could easily be guarded. The grandstands would be built at Roscoe, three miles to the north of this place, where the start would be made. The committee are looking over several routes and will decide in about thirty days. It is up to us to get in and work, if we succeed in getting this, which we can not afford to lose, as it will be a great advertisement for the San Fernando valley. Spectators will be largely brought by the Southern Pacific trains, which stop at Roscoe.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

March 28th, 1909.

(Copyright, 1908, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) Temperance Lesson. Proverbs xliii: 29-35.

Golden Text—At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. Proverbs xliii: 32.

Verses 29-30—Is strong drink as a beverage in so called moderation, good for any body?

Do all who drink habitually receive injury as a result?

Should alcohol be used in any form as a medicine?

Is it safe or prudent, for people in good health to take intoxicating drink as a beverage?

What classes in the community are suffering from the drinking habit, directly and indirectly?

Why do athletes generally abstain from drinking when they are in training for a contest?

What are the signs by which you can nearly always tell a drinking man?

Verses 31-32—What evil is likely to result if any, when a good man, who does not drink, stands at the bar and "looks" on, while his companions are drinking?

What can you say of a man who will not drink himself but treats others?

How would you characterize a temperance man who votes for a man, or a party, pledged to support the liquor traffic?

How many evils can you trace to strong drink?

Think of all the popular habits that tend to evil, and compare them with the evils of the drink habit, and say which habit is the greater curse to the nation?

What is the fascination which draws so many thousands of victims to the drink habit?

If the country towns and cities, were overrun with "serpents and adders," which were biting and causing the death of thousands, what steps would likely be taken to eradicate the plague?

Seeing that all practically admit that the evils of the liquor traffic, are more virulent than "serpents and adders" could be, how do you explain the apathy of the nation in getting rid of this monster evil? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 33-35—Does licentiousness, and impurity of thought, generally accompany the appetite for strong drink, as this verse seems to suggest?

Verses 34-35—Does drinking always produce moral, as well as physical, anaesthesia, deadening the soul to the foulest crimes?

Men under the influence of alcohol are often grievously hurt, sometimes almost frozen to death, and are unconscious of the hurt at the time, and when they get better keep on drinking. How do you account for it?

Lesson for Sunday, April 4th, 1909.—Peter and Cornelius. Acts x: 1-48.

THREE REMARKABLE COMETS.

On June 30th, 1861, the earth is supposed to have passed through the tail of a great comet. On the evening of that day an extraordinary spectacle met the gaze of observers in England, on the disappearance of the sun below the horizon. A golden-yellow planetary disc, wrapped in dense nebulosity, shone out in the June twilight of those latitudes. The number and complexity of the envelopes surrounding the head produced a magnificent effect, portions of six emanations were traceable. As one observer said: "It was as though a number of light, hazy clouds were floating around a miniature full-moon." As the evening advanced and darkness set in, a magnificent tail gradually became visible. Its dimensions were prodigious! It reached upwards, beyond the zenith, when the head had already set below the horizon, and showed no trace of curvature. More remarkable still, however, was the appearance of two widely divergent rays, each pointing toward the head, though cut off by the sky illumination. These streamers were interpreted as being "the perspective representation of a conical or cylindrical tail, hanging closely over our heads, and probably just being lifted out of our atmosphere at the time of observation, about a quarter of an hour before midnight. As the cometary train was then rapidly receding from the earth, the "outspread fan" of light shown by it when we were right in the line of its axis, appeared to close up in departing, and the swiftness with which this closing up was effected disclosed its vicinity.

Subsequent calculations showed that we were not only near, but actually within its folds at that very time—indeed, that the earth was immersed in cometary matter to a depth of some three hundred thousand miles! The comet then lay between the earth and the sun, at a distance of about fourteen million miles, and our globe happening stretched outward along the line of intersection of its own orbit with that of the earth to an extent of fifteen million miles, and our globe happening to pass at the time, found itself during several hours involved in the filmy appendage.

While it is pretty certain that this remarkable immersion really occurred, it was quite without effect of any kind, so far as could be observed by the most refined observations. This fact shows conclusively that the material composing comets' tails, if indeed it can be called material, is of the most extremely tenuous, we may say almost imponderable, character, and we have still to find an answer to the question: "What is it?"

The Morehouse Comet (1908).

Though inconspicuous to unaided vision this comet was exceedingly interesting to astronomers on account of some very remarkable changes which were seen to occur in its shape during its passage towards the sun. Professor Barnard of the Yerkes Observatory, said it was the most bizarre comet that "we have had to deal with since photography began to register the freaks of comets' tails. Almost nightly it has shown features that would have singled it out as a very remarkable object, and on more than one occasion it has presented a most extraordinary and unique appearance." At its perihelion passage, or nearest approach to the sun, it was about five million miles within the earth's orbit; at that time, however, (December 25th) the earth was on the other side of its orbit, one hundred and eighty million miles away.

The comet was first seen by its discoverer, Sept. 1, 1908. While it was approaching the earth was moving in the opposite direction, and during the month of October the two bodies were above one hundred million miles apart. The comet, being high up in the northern sky, was very favorably situated for observation; and at numerous observatories many photographs were taken. Professor Barnard took no less than 239 photographs, on 47 nights, by which he could note the changes in shape and brightness from night to night, and indeed from hour to hour. On the 14th of October, two remarkable condensations or luminous masses were observed in the tail of the comet, which were found to have moved rapidly from the comet's head. In the course of two and a half hours one of these masses moved 224,000 miles, and the other 247,000 miles, and a comparison of the positions for twenty-four hours showed that their average velocity was 129,000, and 142,000 miles per hour, respectively. As one of our local astronomers, Mr. W. H. Knight, says, "If the comet had arrived six months earlier, when the earth was on the same side of its orbit as the comet, we should have been within five million miles of it, and should then have beheld this enormous, but loosely aggregated, mass of matter . . . at such close range that we could readily observe the violent disturbances going on within its brilliant nucleus, and it would have formed an important object of astronomical research." Perhaps, however, the most remarkable comet known is the one called so named from its discoverer, Biela, an Austrian officer, who first saw it in 1826, when it was a somewhat small body, about forty thousand miles in diameter, barely visible to the naked eye, and showing a short tail. It had a period of about 6½ years and was the second comet of short period known, the periodicity of Encke's comet having been discovered seven years previously. Its orbit comes within a few thousand miles of the earth's orbit, the distance varying somewhat, on account of perturbations; but the approach is often so close that if the comet and the earth should happen to come along at the same time, there would be a collision. In 1822 some one started a report that such an encounter was to occur, and there was, in consequence, a veritable panic in Southern France, the first of the numerous "comet-scares." On this occasion, however, the comet passed the critical point nearly a month ahead of the earth, and was never nearer than fifteen million miles. On its return in 1846, it was seen to undergo a strange transformation. It split in two. When first seen on November 28, it was round and single; on December 19 it was distinctly pear-shaped, and ten days later it had divided, the phenomenon being noted in this country some weeks before it was observed in Europe. The twin comets traveled along for four months at an almost unchanging distance of about 165,000 miles, without any apparent effect on each other's motions, but both very active from a physical point of view, showing remarkable variations in brightness, and also alterations. Comet A brightening up when Comet B was faint and vice versa. In August, 1852, the twin comet returned, then however the two parts were one million and a half miles apart, and it was impossible to tell which was which. Neither of them has ever been seen again, and for a long time the question of their fate engaged the utmost ingenuity of astronomers. The answer is apparently on its way to be given in a most remarkable discovery of the connection of comets and meteor streams. In 1872, on November 27, just as the earth was crossing the track of the lost comet, she encountered a wonderful meteoric shower. It was thought that "Biela's comet was shedding over us the pulverized products of its disintegration." This may not be literally true, but some very intimate connection exists between comets and meteor-showers, and its establishment forms one of the most interesting chapters in modern astronomy.

FOURTH STREET NEAR GLENDAL AVENUE

Equal to the Occasion.
The author of "Across England in a Dogcart" once stopped to examine a church in the little village of Enstone. The day was warm, and on leaving the church I rested for awhile in the grateful shade of the building and for the sake of the coolness still kept my hat in my hand. While standing there I overheard one workman ask of another:

"Why do 'e keep 'is 'at off like that out of doors, mate?"
"Cause 'e's a Quaker, o' course," replied the mate. "Quakers allus 'do in churchyards."

Here was an opportunity not to be lost. "No," said I, "I am not a Quaker. I am an Episcopalian."

There was a short, awkward pause. Then the first workman, evidently of an inquiring turn of mind, said to his fellow mason, who seemed to be considered an authority:

"A Episcopale one, 'e says 'e is. Wot's that, Bill?"

"Oh," replied the learned Bill, quite equal to the occasion, "that's one of them fancy foreign religions, sure!"

The Emperor's Orderly.
Frenchmen of every rank and class dearly love titles. The manager of a Paris insurance company was decorated with the Legion of Honor a few days ago, and the clerks in the employ of the company presented him with a piece of plate to which their visiting cards were attached. On looking over these he was a good deal puzzled and amused by the visiting card of the office "boy," an old soldier from the Invalides, who was employed to open the office doors from 9 to 4. Under the man's name was the title "the emperor's orderly." He sent for the old soldier, who stumped in and saluted.

"Of what emperor are you the orderly, and how?" he asked. The old Invalid drew himself up to attention.

"I am the orderly of the emperor," he said, "Napoleon, le Petit Corporal."

"But he is dead. He has been dead some time," answered the puzzled manager.

"I dust his tomb for him," growled the old soldier.—London Express.

No Morals in Dreamland.
If, as many writers have suggested, it is the soul itself that guides the imagery of dreams, how are we to explain the fact that in this chaos of ideas and feelings there is so little distinction between right and wrong that when dreaming we commit acts for which we should weep tears of blood were they as real as they seem to be.

As Professor Hoffman has said, "The familiar check of waking hours, I must not do it because it would be unjust or unkind," never once seems to arrest us in the satisfaction of any whim which may blow about our wayward fancies."

From all of which we must conclude that the dream realm is a world that is entirely oblivious to any moral sense and that, though it may be true that a troubled conscience may produce or affect our dreams, the dreams themselves are never burdened with a conscience.—Bohemian Magazine.

Going Some.
Being pursued by a farmer and his three sons after being caught in the chicken yard, a young colored person had just made up his mind that he was not eluding his followers as quickly as might be when a long eared jack rabbit jumped up from the roadside and started down the road ahead of him. The would be chicken thief had run a few hundred feet farther when the farmer and his boys were astonished to hear the negro shout in a voice that quavered with fright, though unrestrained, "Say, for de Lord sake, you rabbit, get out ob de way and let some one run who can run."—Argonaut.

A Doleful Mood.
The proprietor of a Paris cafe noticed that after he had refused to give his pianist an increase of salary the number of his customers dwindled rapidly. It was only when all but one diner had deserted him that he discovered that the pianist had been inflicting Chopin's "Funeral March" on the audience nightly. The pianist, who was proceeded against in the law courts and was fined 50 francs, pleaded that he played according to the mood he felt in after his request had been refused.

One In, 'Tother Out.
"It must be very nice," said the caller to the author's wife, "to have your husband at home so much of the time."
"Yes," replied Mrs. Richard Darlington Spriggles. "It gives me a chance to go out."—Harper's Weekly.

No Novelty.
"A novel always ends with the marriage."

"Which is proper. There's nothing novel about the subsequent hunt for a flat and a cook and a job lot of furniture."—Puck.

Helping Him.
"Mr. Chairman," began the man who is unaccustomed to public speaking. "I—er—I—er—I—er—"
"Well," interrupted the chairman kindly, "to err is human."—Washington Herald.

A Wet Blanket.
Peckem—You are not married yet, are you? Youngbach—No, but I'm engaged, and that's as good as being married. Peckem—It's a whole lot better, if only you knew.—London Answers.

Wit should be used as a shield for defense rather than as a sword to wound others.—Fuller.

Balloon Talk of 1896.
Robertson, the celebrated aeronaut who ascended from Petersburg last year, is endeavoring to obtain the necessary assistance at that place for the construction of an air balloon on a very large scale. He proposes that it shall be 722 feet in diameter, which he calculates will carry up thirty-seven tons and which he supposes, therefore, will easily support fifty people and all necessary accommodation for them. It is to have attached to it a vessel furnished with masts, sails and every other article required for navigating the sea in case of accidents and provided with a cabin for the aeronauts, properly fitted up, gallery for cooking, proper stores for eating and drinking and several other conveniences. To render the ascent more safe, it is to take up another smaller balloon within it and a parachute, which will render the descent perfectly gentle if the outer balloon bursts. From his construction it will be calculated to remain in the air several weeks.—From Hudson (N. Y.) Balance and Columbian Repository of July 15, 1896.

An Awful Rebuke.
Once upon a time a certain community planned to give a dinner to a judge there. When the judge came to scan the list of those invited he raised vigorous protest against one name, that of a man who had been the most brilliant lawyer in town, but who was now the town drunkard. They finally overcame his opposition, but the town drunkard had heard of it. He was the last speaker called upon. He arose and said: "Mr. Toastmaster—Fifteen years ago I had a practice in this town that amounted to $12,000 a year. I had a wife and family whom I supported in comfort. I had my own horse and carriage. At that time the guest of the evening was on his way west in an emigrant wagon. He landed in this town and started in to make his living. Since then, Mr. Toastmaster," he cried, with a pathetic break in his voice—"since that time I have been going steadily down, down, down, and our guest has been going up, up, up, until now we are just about on a level."

Disraeli's Jokes.
Disraeli dearly loved a joke at the expense of others. An author who had sent his latest effort in fiction to him received the following complimentary acknowledgment:

"I thank you for the book you sent me and will lose no time in reading it."

"I wonder what makes my eyes so weak," a fierce Radical once said to Disraeli.

"It is because they are in a weak place," was the reply.

An incident in the life of the late Lord Rosslyn shows how acute was the sense of humor in Disraeli. "What can we do with Rosslyn?" he asked of a colleague.

"Make him master of the buck-hounds, as his father was," suggested the latter.

"No," replied the premier; "he swears far too much for that. We will make him high commissioner to the Church of Scotland." And such he was made.—Chambers' Journal.

A Maker of Bulls.
Some excellent bulls are credited to William Arollin, who was a London police judge in the thirties of the last century. He once remarked to counsel, "If you can show precisely at what moment the offense was committed and prove that the prisoner was not there when he did it, he could not possibly have done it." And he sagely added, "We cannot divest ourselves of common sense in a court of justice." Of a similar character was an axiom he once delivered himself of, which has been maliciously fathered on many other occupants of the bench, "If ever there was a case of clearer evidence than this case, this case is that case."

A Prophecy.
A certain college president in Indiana, a clergyman, when addressing the students in the chapel at the beginning of the college year observed that it was "a matter of congratulation to all the friends of the college that the year had opened with the largest freshman class in its history." Then, without any pause, the good man turned to the lesson for the day, the Third Psalm, and began to read in a voice of thunder:

"Lord, how are they increased that trouble me!"—Detroit News-Tribune.

A Drawing Card.
"I see sixteen years elapse between acts 2 and 3," said the manager. "Gives me an idea."
"What's that?" inquired the author. "I'll have the gowns that the heroine wears during those sixteen years on exhibition in the lobby. That ought to draw the women in droves."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cruel.
Leading Tragic Man—Did you see how I paralyzed the audience in the death scene? They were crying all over the house! Stage Manager—Yes; they knew you weren't really dead.—London Tit-Bits.

Contradictory.
Bobbis—Women are certainly contradictory. Slobbs—That's right. It's when a woman gets hot at you that she treats you coldly.—Philadelphia Record.

Woman's Needs.
A woman in a divorce case was asked why she bought adornments instead of necessities. Who shall decide what are necessities for women?—Chicago News.

Lookers on many times see more than the gamblers.—Bacon.

A Good Qualification.
The mystery of the negro mind is illustrated by a story which the Philadelphia Record prints. John, the colored applicant for the position of butler in a family living in one of the fashionable suburbs of Philadelphia, strove to impress his would be employer with his entire fitness for the place.

"Oh, yes, sub," he said, "I's sholy well educated, sub. I's passed a civil service examination."

"Indeed," responded the gentleman, "that is very fine, I'm sure, but I can't say that that will be of any particular value to me in a butler."

"No?" said the surprised applicant. "It shore is strange how gemmen's tastes do differ. Now, Mr. Williams," naming his former employer, "he say, 'John, one thing I deman' is civil service to mah guests,' an' he done gave me a zamination ri' there, sub, an' that's the truf."

Then the gentleman saw a great light. He replied:

"Yes, you are quite right, John. Civil service is a very important and rather unusual virtue, so if you have passed that examination I think we'll consider you engaged."

A Mogul Hero.
Here is a little vignette of Babar, the first of the great moguls. At eleven he succeeded to his kingdom of Ferghana. His father was accidentally killed, and "I," says the boy, "immediately mounted in great haste and, taking such followers as were at hand, set out to secure my throne." He succeeded in holding it, nearly lost it by trusting a traitor who was "the best player at leapfrog he had ever seen" and actually lost it by grasping at the possession of Samarkand. Then came two years of wandering. Then he got Ferghana again and lost it a second time by trying to make his Mongol soldiers restore their loot to the peasantry. And all this before he was seventeen! Thirty-two years later he died, the last scene being the most striking of all. His darling son Humayun was desperately ill. Only some great sacrifice could save him, said the doctor. He entered the chamber, walked round the bed three times, saying, "On me be thy suffering," and a few days afterward died.—London Spectator.

The Dogskin Wouldn't Go Round.
Hungary swarms with barristers. It is the greatest ambition of the Hungarian peasant to make one of his sons an advocate.

The son of a small farmer in the neighborhood of Budapest was sent by his father to the law school of that town, but either from lack of parts or the necessary application he was plucked in the qualifying examination.

Not daring to return to the paternal abode empty handed after all the money that had been spent on his education, he conceived and executed the plan of forging a legal diploma. The father was not, however, so ignorant as not to be aware that such diplomas are always written on parchment—kutya-ber (dogskin)—in Hungary.

"Why is your certificate not made out on kutya-ber?" asked the old man.

"The fact is, father," coolly replied the youth, "there are more barristers than dogs in Hungary, and so there is not enough kutya-ber to make diplomas for us all."—London Answers.

Gam's Dry Humor.
When the gallant Welsh captain David Gam was sent forward by Henry V. to reconnoiter the French army before the battle of Agincourt he found that the enemy outnumbered the English by about five to one. His report to the king is historic:

"There are enough to be killed, enough to be taken prisoners and enough to run away."

This quaint forecast of the result of the battle at once spread through the camp, and doubtless every yeoman archer of the valiant company felt an inch taller. We know that it was almost literally justified by the event. Poor Gam's dry humor was equalled by his courage. He was killed while in the act of saving the life of his prince.—London Standard.

Origin of the Word "Mustard."

Our English word "mustard" is traceable to the French "moutarde," the origin of which is curiously given. In 1382 Philip the Bold, duke of Burgundy, granted to the town of Dijon the privilege of bearing his armorial ensigns, with the motto "Mout me tarde" ("I wish ardently"), in return for a handsome contingent of a thousand men furnished to him at his expense. Pleased with the royal condescension, the authorities ordered the device to be affixed over the principal gates of the city. Time or accident at length obliterated the middle word, and the two remaining, mout tarde, were printed on the labels which the merchants of Dijon pasted on pots in which they sent this commodity all over the world.

The Word "Wallop."

The origin of the familiar vernacular verb "to wallop" is not generally known. It comes from the family name of the earls of Portsmouth. Sir John Wallop, K. G., was admiral commander in the reign of King Henry VIII. of the fleet which avenged French raids by burning French ships and twenty-one French villages. This was called, in the current parlance of the times, "walloping" them, and the phrase passed into the language and still survives.

A Convenient Topic.

"I wonder what persuaded Mr. Bligh to believe in reincarnation?" "The fact," replied Miss Cayenne, "that so few people know anything about it. It enables him to have the conversation almost entirely to himself."—Washington Star.

The Pictured Cowboy.

I recall one picture by a celebrated artist of the east who does western things. It depicts a "Cowboy at Rest." He is lying on his stomach in the sun, his chin in his hands. His horse stands nearby, with the reins thrown over the horn of the saddle. Now, a cowboy in the daytime, well filled with beans and canned tomatoes, would not lie thus, and, above all, he would not leave his horse standing thus. He would pull the reins down over the horse's head and let them hang, otherwise his cowhorse would depart. I recall yet another picture of a faithful cowpuncher who with his trusty rifle defends himself from behind his dead horse, which he uses as a fortress. The dead horse is about four feet and a half through sideways—excellent for a fortress, but a trifle wide for a thin flanked cowhorse. It would be useless to point out any detail like this to any earnest artist of today. Worse than useless would it be to suggest that a cowpuncher is the laziest created thing, for in art he must do perpetual stunts of "action."—Collier's Weekly.

An Easy Grade.

Patronage, political, religious and social, has seen its best days in England, and it is becoming more and more difficult. St. James' Budget opines to find material for such a story as follows:

At the end of a political campaign many years ago a young man who had worked valiantly for the successful candidate claimed a reward. The prize promised was a sergentancy in the artillery. But the candidate found that he was unable to carry out his promise, inasmuch as it required six years' service to qualify a man for the rank. He became thoughtful, but finally saw light.

"Does it require six years to qualify a man for a lieutenantancy?" he asked one who knew.

"Certainly not," was the reply.

"Well, make young Blank a lieutenant, then," said the candidate, with a sigh of relief.

Blank was thus made a lieutenant for no other reason than that he was not fit to be a sergent.

They Knew the Pole.

Some years ago when Dr. Nansen visited Leeds on his return from the polar regions he was welcomed by a large crowd of spectators, who cheered vociferously. Two of the most ardent admirers of Nansen were a couple of old men, who kept shouting and waving their sticks. When the celebrated explorer had passed, immediately following in the wake of the carriage came a wagon dragged by three horses, bearing a long iron pole, which belonged to the electric tramways company.

Directly the old men saw it the following conversation took place:

"Well, I'll be blowed! Siltha, Bill, he's brou't the pole back w' him!" said

"Aye," said the other admirer of Nansen, "and we t' only two 'at's noticed it. There's all running after t' carriage. Siltha, there's that ignorant they can't tell t' pole when they see it!"

A Bernard Shaw Joke.

After addressing an Edinburgh meeting for ninety minutes once Mr. Bernard Shaw remarked that the time was a quarter to 10, and he had intended to finish at 9 o'clock. He did not seem in the least fatigued; the audience were also quite fresh, and when the speaker was about to sit down loud cries of "Go on!" were raised on all sides.

"Do you really wish me to go on?" Mr. Shaw asked. He was answered by renewed cheering and more shouts of "Go on!"

Great was the disappointment, therefore, when he replied, "That is the exact point at which an experienced speaker sits down," which he accordingly did.

An Artist's Mustache.

The mustache was not viewed with favor in England in the middle of the last century. An anecdote is told of the late Thomas Cooper, the English artist, to illustrate. He was brought before a magistrate in 1846 on some minor charge and was described in the police report as being "fashionably dressed, with large mustaches." The Art Journal of the date, commenting on it, said that "no member of the Royal Academy perpetrates the atrocity of mustaches, a most un-English affectation." Mr. Cooper became a member of the academy a few years later.

Sunshine and Long Life.

Some towns on the Italian side of the Swiss Alps are noted for the great number of sunny days. Carabietta and Pentilino, near Lugano, had 11st with 327 and 331 sunny days respectively in one year. Possibly because of this liberal amount of sunshine the percentage of old people is exceptionally high in the canton of Tessin, forty-four per thousand being over seventy years old and ten per thousand over eighty.—New York Post.

Discourteous.

"What do you think?" exclaimed the theatrical star proudly. "They are going to name a new cigar after me!" "Well," rejoined the manager, "here's hoping it will draw better than you do."—Exchange.

For that reason you should not buy harness from a picture or description. Come here where you can examine the leather, the strong sewing, the solid riveting. It has a fine finish, too. THE SECRET.

(For the NEWS.)
Oh, buds, with your whispering perfumes,
Your smiles all so daintily chaste,
The sunbeams have stolen your secret
And your mystery all is waste.
The song-birds are singing it gaily,
See, up in the green tree-tops near;
Why, blossoms, the whole earth is telling
The secret that fair "Spring is here!"
The tiny, wee plants in the woodland
Are putting on garments of pink,
Of white, and of blue, and of crimson.
Hear the trill of the bobolink?
The brook takes a leap with gay splashing,
And dances along brightly clear.
Why, buds, 'tis no secret I'm telling,
The whole world cries out "Spring is here!"

General Merrill will inspect the post at that time. The date set for the meeting is April 10th at 2:30 p. m. All members of the post are urged to be present.

Mr. Harry Challenger of England, who has been spending some time in traveling through Canada and the northern part of the United States, arrived in Tropic Monday morning and will spend some time with his uncle, Mr. Joseph Marple and family of Park avenue. It is very probable that Mr. Challenger will make his permanent residence in Tropic.

O. W. Blain, past grand chief templar of the I. O. G. T. of Michigan delivered a lecture in the G. A. R. hall last night. Although the affair was not advertised extensively there was quite a good attendance and the speaker was enthusiastically received. This affair was given chiefly with the hope that new interest may be given to the Good Templar lodge of this valley.

The people of Tropic are anxiously awaiting the opening of Brand boulevard between Tropic avenue and Cypress street. The committee from the Tropic Improvement association is doing everything in their power to secure this improvement. The committee which has been chosen to work in conjunction with the committee from the Glendale Improvement association reports that everything is progressing splendidly and that things so far are looking favorable toward making this much-needed improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Richardson entertained about forty of their friends at their home on the corner of Central avenue and Cypress street, last night. During the evening games and music was enjoyed and those present were given the opportunity to meet Rev. Henderson C. Shoemaker, the new pastor at the Presbyterian church, and wife. Those present were members and friends of the Presbyterian church.

A union meeting of the congregation of the Methodist and Presbyterian church will be held in the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. As on former occasions the music of the evening will be under the supervision of the Methodist church, and Rev. Shoemaker, the new pastor at the Presbyterian church, will be the speaker of the evening. An invitation was extended to the Christian church of this place to participate, but up to this writing it could not be ascertained whether or not the people of that church had accepted. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

A reception will be given by the members of the Presbyterian church to their new pastor, Rev. Henderson C. Shoemaker, in the church parlors, next Monday evening. The early part of the evening will be given up to a program which is being arranged, after which a social hour will be enjoyed during which time those who are interested may get acquainted with the new pastor. Refreshments will be served during the evening. This reception is not open to the members of the church alone, but a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend. The officials of the church are very anxious that there be a good attendance upon this occasion.

It is generally understood that the reason for so many hands being put out of work at the Western Art Tile Company's works at this place recently, is that a large number of improvements are now being made at the works. Almost every section of the works has been suspended for several weeks in order that the improvement work will not be hampered in the least. During the past few months this company has been making many improvements to their plant and during the time that these improvements were being made these hands were kept at work and in many ways hindered those who were working on the sections. Now that these extensive improvements are decided upon it was thought best to close down several of the departments until the work is completed. It is expected that the workmen will return to the factory within two weeks at the longest.

The large handsome bungalow of Mrs. Kathryn Frankland is almost completed, and will be one of the prettiest homes in Tropic. The house covers a ground space of 45x40 and will contain five rooms. The living room is 25x17 feet, with large fireplace and paneled up 7 feet, with beamed ceilings, and tinted walls. Two large sleeping rooms open off the living room on the South side with kitchen, breakfast room and screen porch on North side. Large front and side verandas under the roof measure thirteen feet. The site is on Boynton street off More and commands a magnificent view of mountain and valley. Mr. A. J. Frankland is a Los Angeles newspaper man, and since coming to Tropic eight months ago, has succeeded in bringing eight families here to live. Not so bad for so short a time, figuring one family for each month and some to come.

The fact has just been made public that the Tropic and Glendale Berry Growers' association will not continue to do business during the coming season. It is thought that there are several reasons for the discontinuing of this association. One reason is that the prices which were received for the berries last season did not guarantee the risk of running the association through another season with the number of growers so greatly lessened. It is estimated that at least one-half of the acreage planted to strawberries in this place will have been surveyed and transformed into building lots before the coming berry season opens. And when it is considered that the association, although it was conducted on the most economical plans, did not make a report near as good as it did the year previous, so it can be seen that to run the association another season with the membership of the organization so rapidly falling off, would be running a great risk.

It is generally thought that the price of berries will go up with the opening of the coming season and the ranchers who are still holding onto their berry fields, are anticipating a good year during 1909. Some of them will continue to ship their berries to Los Angeles by way of the Pacific Electric, while a great many will convey their product to town by wagon.

CHARMING SOCIAL SUCCESS.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Davenport, with Mrs. Hattie Brewster, entertained a coterie of friends with a delightful evening at G. A. R. hall, Tuesday evening. The assembly room was converted into a large drawing room where cards were dealt. Plumose and scarlet geraniums were used most effectively in the artistic decorations. Mrs. Charles Parker was awarded ladies' capital prize, David H. Imier, gentleman's first prize; Mrs. Ernest J. Morgan, ladies' consolation, while John Parker received congratulations upon securing the booby prize. On the new banquet hall which has but recently been added to the hall, the decorations were green and white. Many fragrant spring blossoms peeped from amid the trailing greenery, which was arranged on the damask.

Following the banquet dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Mrs. A. O. Conrad assisted Mr. and Mrs. Davenport and Mrs. Brewster in the entertainment of their guests who numbered Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peckham, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. David

First: That a cement curb be constructed along the east side of the roadway of Central Avenue from the south curb line of Doran Street to the Southern City Boundary line of the City of Glendale (excepting along such portions of the lines of said roadway upon which a cement curb has already been constructed to the official grade and line), including returns at all street intersections, in accordance with specifications for the construction of cement curbs on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale, said specifications being numbered 2, except that the top of the street face of all curbs from the North curb line of Fourth Street to the South curb line of Doran Street shall be placed fourteen (14) feet from the property line instead of the distance from the property line provided for in said specifications number 2.

Second: That a cement sidewalk (5) feet in width be constructed along the east side of Central Avenue from the South curb line of Doran Street to the Southern City Boundary line of the City of Glendale, (excepting along that portion of the east side of Central Avenue upon which a cement sidewalk four (4) feet or more in width has already been constructed to the official line and grade), said sidewalk to be constructed according to specifications for the construction of cement sidewalks on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale, said specifications being numbered 1.

Sec. 2. That the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale finds upon estimates directed to be furnished and furnished by the City Engineer, that the total cost of said improvements will be greater than fifty cents per front foot along the east side of said street, including the cost of intersections, and it is hereby determined in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, as amended by an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, amending said last named Act, which amending Act became a law March 2, 1899, that bonds shall be issued to represent the cost of said improvements; said bonds shall be serial, extending over a period of ten years and an even proportion of the principal sum of such bonds shall be payable annually by coupon, on the second day of January of each year after their date, until the whole are paid, and said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of seven (7) per cent, per annum on all sums unpaid; payable semi-annually by coupons, on the second days of January and July of each year.

Section 3. Section 4. The City Clerk of the City of Glendale is hereby directed to post conspicuously for five days on or near the Chamber door of the Board of Trustees, in the manner and form required by law, a notice with Specifications, inviting sealed proposals or bids for doing said work; and said City Clerk is hereby directed to publish for two days in said newspaper hereby designated for that purpose, as aforesaid, in the manner and in the form required by law, a notice of said work inviting sealed proposals or bids for doing said work and referring to the Specifications posted and on file.
